901 NORTH FOURTH STREET / MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN 53203 / (414) 272-6030

Bill King II
Director of Publicity

To the Media:

The Milwaukee Bucks would like to welcome members of the media to the Milwaukee Arena. Our entire organization has an appreciation for your efforts and aims and will assist you in any way possible. In return, the coverage the media has afforded us throughout our years in the NBA has been superb and we appreciate your dedication. The following are some of the services we will provide and some of the things we ask of you to help us run our operation smoothly.

* Individual game credentials should be requested a minimum of 30 hours prior to game time (Friday noon for Saturday and Sunday games). Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up at the will-call window in the southwest corner of the Arena just off the Kilbourn Street entrance. Credentials are good for admittance to the Arena, Press Room, and home and visiting locker rooms. Media members holding Bucks' season passes should notify this office of their intentions to cover a game in order to reserve seating on the press table. All press seating in the Milwaukee Arena is on court level.

* The press room is located on court level in the northeast corner of the Arena. The room opens 1½ hours before the game and again at halftime and following the game. Secure storage of typewriters, coats, and the like is available. We must limit press room usage to members of the media only when valid Bucks' press passes are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests, or others. The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for bonafide writers, reporters, broacasters, and game personnel.

* Both the Bucks' and visitors' locker rooms will be open up to 45 minutes before game time and ten minutes after the game. Your cooperation is asked in maintaining a work atmosphere in the locker rooms for post-game interviews. Those newspapers with morning deadlines and TV stations doing live spots should be given preference in obtaining players and coaches. Basically common courtesy should prevail.

* Special instructions for all cameramen can be found on the back of the season photo passes and on the envelopes in which the single game passes are issued.

* Pre-game press notes, lineup and scoring sheets, and the current program insert will be available in the Press Room before the game. Programs will be available on a limited basis. Play-by-play, quarter stats, and half-time box scores will be delivered directly to the press table. Please keep sets quarter-by-quarter. A limited number of play-by-play sheets and halftime boxes will be available in the Press Room after the game. Complete final boxes and fourth quarter play-by-plays will be available after the game in the Press Room.

* The Bucks provide complimentary telecopier service at every home game. Harold Lewis operates the service. Special arrangements to file off day stories or the like can be made through the Bucks publicity office. Any writers who need to rent video relay terminals to file stories, should contact the Bucks publicity office at least one week in advance of the game to secure arrangements.

Cordially,

Bill King II

On Game Saturdays, the Arena box office is open at 10 a.m., on Sundays at noon.

1980-81 SCHEDULE FORMAT

The 23 teams of the National Basketball Association will operate under an "unbalanced" schedule as adopted by the Board of Governors during the League meetings in Washington D.C. in 1979. The schedule is similar to that of last year when the format was designed to enhance inter-conference rivalries and save on travel expenses. The format calls for each team to play teams within their own conference six times (except two clubs - blind draws were held to determine the match-ups), three each at home and on the road. Teams in the opposite conference will be met just twice, once each at home and on the road. The schedule format differs from that the League operated under the previous three seasons when each club faced 19 opponents four times each and two opponents three times.

On the whole, the length of the entire NBA season is approximately the same as last season. Opening day is October 10th with the close of the regular season March 29th. The mini-series of the NBA World Championship Playoffs will begin March 31st with the 1981 NBA World Champion to be crowned no later than May 17th. All in all, the 23 NBA teams will play 943 regular season contests.

With the addition of the NBA's 23rd franchise, the Dallas Mavericks, and the subsequent restructuring of the League by Division and Conference, the Bucks will face their ten Eastern Conference opponents six times (except Philadelphia and Washington). Milwaukee will play their twelve Western Conference rivals just twice each.

The Mississippi River is now the dividing line separating the Eastern and Western Conferences. In order to determine which teams would play uneven amounts of games against teams within their own Conference, the schedule was prepared by assigning teams within a Division numbers one through five or one through six. Blind draws were held to assign a team the schedule which corresponds to the number it selected. Thus with Milwaukee drawing uneven games against Washington and Philadelphia, the Bullets will visit Brew City just twice while the Bucks play the Sixers in the Spectrum two times.

For Milwaukee the home/road split of games is favorable to the Bucks, particularly in the stretch run month of March when Milwaukee makes 10 home appearances as opposed to seven road engagements. Other months are: October, 5 home and 6 road; November, 7 home and 8 road; December, 7 home and 6 road; January, an even 7-7 split; and February, 5 home and 7 road.

The longest homestand of the season encompasses a four game stretch from February 25th through March 5th against Los Angeles, Washington, Detroit, and Atlanta. The schedule has the Bucks playing at home on 14 Sundays, once on a Monday, seven Tuesday dates, two Wednesdays, nine Fridays, and two Saturdays. The premiere and only Arena appearance this season by the NBA's newest franchise, the Dallas Mavericks, occurs on December 27th. Other single stops are to be made by the defending NBA Champion Los Angeles Lakers on February 25th, and by Western Conference powers Seattle, March 15th; Phoenix, January 11th; and Kansas City, January 16th.

The Bucks will have two Friday the 13th appearances during this, their 13th season in the NBA. The Golden State Warriors come to town February 13th while Philadelphia is the opponent on March 13th. Milwaukee plays three games in a row (on successive days) four times during the course of the season.

Milwaukee will close the regular season March 29th on the road with what could be a pivotal game against the Central Division champion Atlanta Hawks. The longest road trip of the season encompasses five games, and that occurs twice. From January 21st through the 29th, Milwaukee plays Golden State, Phoenix, San Diego, Seattle, and Denver. Then from February 14th through the 22nd, the Bucks tackle the trio from Texas; Houston, San Antonio, and Dallas, before winding up the trip in Kansas City and Washington.

The Bucks look forward to the possibility of eight network television appearances in the Arena. Milwaukee's schedule is conducive for three CBS Network telecasts of Sunday matinee games and five USA cable network games on Thursday evenings (7:00 p.m. game times).

The general rule of thumb for game times in the Milwaukee Arena is: Sunday through Thursdays 7:30 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays 8:00 p.m. The exceptions are five Thursday night games starting at 7:00 p.m. to accommodate the USA national cable telecast and Sunday games from mid-January on, three of which start at 12 noon for the benefit of CBS Sports and the fourth at 1:30 p.m.

In the friendly confines of the Milwaukee Arena, the Bucks have won 69.8% of their games in the twelve year history of the franchise.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

The winners of the four division races will receive first round byes in the playoffs under a new formula recently approved by the Board of Governors of the National Basketball Association.

Under the 12-team playoff format, the third, fourth, fifth and sixth teams in each conference will take part in the first round.

In that round, all best-of-three series, the team with the third best conference record meets the team with the sixth best record, while the fourth and fifth teams face each other.

The division champions with the best record in their respective conferences will begin play in the next round facing the winner of the series between the fourth and fifth place teams. The other division champion in each conference will go against the winner of the series between the third and sixth clubs. Both series will be the best-of-seven with the winners meeting for the conference championship in another best-of-seven series.

Then, the league championship will be decided in the traditional best-of-seven series between the conference champions.

In all cases, the team with the higher percentage during the season will have the odd game at home.

The playoff formula to determine the conference champions is shown below:

CONFERENCE PLAYOFF:

(NOTE: The division leaders in each Conference automatically make the playoffs. Then the next four teams in each Conference with the highest won-lost percentages. The teams are then ranked one through six with the division leaders always one and two.)

BROADCAST INFORMATION

Radio broadcasts of all Milwaukee Bucks home and away games are originated by WTMJ, Milwaukee's NBC radio affiliate at 620 on the AM dial. Games are fed to a statewide network of over 20 stations throughout Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Jim Irwin is the "Voice of the Bucks" and will be joined courtside by original Buck Jon McGlocklin for color commentary on 41 home games.

Telecasts of 18 road games originate through WVTV-TV, Channel 18 in Milwaukee. The telecasts are fed to a network of cable stations covering the primary television markets in Wisconsin.

1980-81 TELEVISION SCHEDULE
WVTV - CHANNEL 18

The Milwaukee Bucks will televise 18 road games back to Milwaukee on WVTV-Channel 18 during the 1980-81 NBA regular season.

Tipping off the TV schedule is the first telecast ever of a season opener, this year from Philadelphia against the Eastern Conference Champion 76ers. This marks the earliest date a Milwaukee road game has ever been televised.

The bulk of the TV schedule gets underway on Saturday, December 6 at 7 p.m. when the Bucks travel to the Big Apple to take on the New York Knickerbockers. In all, one game will be televised in October, five each in December and January, four in February, and three in March. Eleven of the eighteen games are against Eastern Conference rivals.

Channel 18 will televise four of five games on the Bucks longest west coast road trip of the season starting on January 21 at Golden State and ending the 28th in Seattle with stops at Phoenix and San Diego in between. The club will also televise their first and only stopover in Dallas, the NBA's 23rd and newest franchise city, on February 17.

The Bucks and WVTV are currently in the final year of a three year agreement. The pact gives WVTV the rights to air selected road games during the regular season, as well as any road playoff contests that are not selected for national network coverage through the NBA television contract.

Eddie Doucette and Jon McGlocklin will continue to provide play-by-play and color analysis for the season. Doucette called the shots for the Bucks for eleven seasons on both radio and television before moving to San Diego last year. He now concentrates on the televised games. McGlocklin is in his fifth season of color commentary, having moved behind the mike in 1976 after retiring as an active player.

1980-81 NBA RULES CHANGES

1. Game Clock and Red Light Behind Backboard to be Synchronized
Behind each backboard a red light will be placed and synchronized to light up when the horn sounds at the expiration of each period.
Rule 1, Section II, f., page 9

2. Elimination of Jewelry and any Equipment Dangerous to other Players
Players are not permitted to play with any type of hand, arm, face, nose, ear, head or neck jewelry. Any equipment which is of hard substance (casts, splints, guards, braces) must be padded or foam covered and have no exposed sharp or cutting edges. Face masks, eye or nose protectors must conform to the contour of the face and have no sharp or protruding edges.
Rule 2 Section II, b., c., d., page 10

3. Correcting Errors - Teams Lined Up Improperly
If any period begins with teams lined up improperly and scores result from this error, all points will be deleted and the period restarted unless 10 seconds have elapsed from the game clock. If 10 seconds have elapsed, all points count and teams shoot for the same baskets.
Rule 2, Section VI, Note (3), page 11

4. Twenty-second Time-out
Each team is entitled to one 20-second time-out per half for a total of two per game. All overtimes are considered part of the second half. Only one substitution may be made. If the team calling the time-out substitutes, the opposing team may also substitute one player. The calling of a second 20-second time-out in a half automatically becomes a regular time-out. Teams are not permitted option privileges on a 20-second time-out.
Rule 5, Section VI, page 21

5. Time-out in Backcourt and Option
During the last two minutes of regulation play or overtime periods, a team will have the option of moving the ball to midcourt if they have not dribbled or passed following a rebound or change of possession after time is called. If the ball has been dribbled or passed following a rebound or change of possession, the ball is put into play at the spot nearest where the ball was when time was called; and time shall remain as it was.
Rule 5, Section VIII, d., page 22

6. Technical Foul on Offensive Team
Any time a technical foul is called on the offensive team, the 24-second clock remains as is.
Rule 7, Section II, k., page 25

7. Resetting Clock on Punched Ball Violation
On any deliberate kicked or punched ball, the 24-second clock will be reset to 24 seconds.
Rule 7, Section II, m., page 26

8. Flagrant Foul - Choosing Substitute Shooter for Man Injured After Being Fouled Flagrantly
If a flagrant foul is called and the offended player is unable to attempt the free throw/s, his coach may designate any member of the team to attempt the free throw/s.
Rule 9, Section II, Note (1), page 28

9. Goal Tending a Free Throw Attempt
A defensive player may not catch or deflect the ball before it reaches the basket. The penalty is the scoring of the point and the same player receives another free throw. The additional free throw is considered a new play.
Rule 10, Section I, A., page 28

10. Double Foul on the Ball - Jump Takes Place in Center Circle
This replaces the previous rule which had the jump ball in the nearest circle.
Rule 12, B., Section IV, Note (1), page 36

11. Flagrant Foul
A player who commits a flagrant foul is automatically ejected. If the offended player is unable to shoot, his coach may choose any player on or off the floor to attempt the foul/s.

MECCA'S GEOMETRIC COURT
Designed by Robert Indiana

The design on the court you see before you was developed by Robert Indiana. Indiana has said of himself, "I am an American painter of signs charting the course. I would be a people's painter as well as a painter's painter."

Succinctly he has explained his aims, and at the same time the reasons for his success, of which there can be no doubt. Since his first art show in 1960, Mr. Indiana's art has been seen and acclaimed internationally. The floor design along with LeRoy Nieman's "Basketball Superstars" painting for the 1977 All-Star Game in Milwaukee is the second major piece of art nationally recognized to have originated from Milwaukee.

Robert Indiana has established a lasting reputation as an artist who paints America. He paints about his country; its people; and about himself; as well as about the traditions and cultures we all know. Because his art speaks of the nature of our land and the American people, Robert Indiana is destined to be among the great American masters such as: Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Edward Hooper.

Indiana is one of the leaders of the Pop Art movement of the 1960's and 70's. The trademarks of his art are the lettered signs, directional symbols, commercial illustrations; precise shapes; and intensely active colors. His art has been referred to as American as apple pie. He deals with signs of life in both vocabulary and form. Like highway signs, his paintings are geometric shapes with bright, bold numbers and letters upon them. LOVE is perhaps his most famous series of paintings.

Claiming the same hometown as Former Buck Kent Benson in New Castle, Indiana, Mr. Indiana's works are on display across the country, and such institutions as the Carnegie Institute of Arts in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art, the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, Yale and Princeton Universities, and the Milwaukee Art Center all own works by Indiana. Previously Indiana has been commissioned to redesign the U.S. one cent piece by ART IN AMERICA, a mural for the New York State Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, and by the United States Government to design a Special Stamp for Someone Special in the denomination of 8 cents and issued originally in Philadelphia in 1973 just to name a few prominent works.

Robert Indiana has lived and worked in New York since 1954.

The court itself is the same that has been in use during past seasons. Before being painted, it was completely refinished and sealed. Indiana did not actually paint the court, that task was contracted to a local sign painting company. Indiana signed the court of the southwest corner with a can of spray paint and a specially prepared stencil. Mr. Indiana also designed the banners that hang above the upper parquet around the Arena. The colors will also be picked up in the outer lobbies as MECCA plans to refurbish those facilities. Total cost of the project approaches $40,000 with a portion of that to be recouped by the sale of banners and posters similar to those in the Arena.

BUCKS HISTORY — THE FIRST DECADE

Kareem and Commissioner Kennedy

On October 16, 1968, before a crowd of 8,467 at the Milwaukee Arena, the Milwaukee Bucks made their National Basketball Association debut. The Chicago Bulls, however, won 89-84. The Bucks first win came in their sixth game, a 134-118 victory over Detroit on October 31, 1968. The Bucks went on to win 27 games and lose 55 in their first season, but set a home attendance record for a first year team, averaging 6,246 fans at the Arena. Guard Jon McGlocklin led the team in scoring with a 19.6 average; forward Greg Smith was the leading rebounder, and guard Guy Rodgers was the playmaker.

The Bucks last place finish in the East Division and the last place finish in the West by the other expansion team, the Phoenix Suns, qualified the two teams for a coin flip to determine rights to the number one choice in the college draft. On March 19, 1969, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy flipped the coin. Phoenix chose heads, the coin came up tails, and on April 2, 1969 the Bucks signed 7-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of UCLA.

Abdul-Jabbar became an instant superstar, teaming with McGlocklin, Smith, rookie Bob Dandridge and Flynn Robinson in leading the Bucks from the cellar spot to a runner-up place in the East. The Bucks won 56 and lost 26 that year and then defeated the Philadelphia 76ers in five games. 360,650 fans watched the Bucks at the Milwaukee Arena, an average of 9,490 per game. Following the season, the Bucks made their biggest trade — getting All-Pro Guard Oscar Robertson from Cincinnati for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk. Just prior to the start of the 1970-71 season, Bob Boozer and Lucius Allen were acquired from Seattle for Don Smith.

With Kareem, Robertson, McGlocklin, Dandridge and Smith forming the starting five and Boozer, Allen and Dick Cunningham providing backup, the Bucks ran away with the Midwest Division in the newly aligned four division league setup. The Bucks won 66 and lost only 16 games, in the process setting six league records: home wins, 34; road wins, 28; field goal percentage, .509; field goals, 3972; and assists, 2249. In a playoff competition the Bucks dispatched San Francisco and Los Angeles in five game series and then blasted Baltimore four straight for the World's Championship, only the second time in league history that the title series ended so quickly. In winning the World's Championship, the Bucks had come further, faster, than any expansion team in the history of major professional sports.

Abdul-Jabbar

In 1971-72 the Bucks made the playoffs for the third straight year, winning the Midwest Division for the second year in a row. The Bucks elevated Wayne Embry to the general manager post and named William Alverson, a legal advisor to the club since its beginning, president in March, 1972.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar earned the league's MVP honor for the second straight year, averaging 34.8 points per game and leading the NBA in that department. The Bucks found defense of their World Championship title difficult. The Bucks disposed of Golden State in five games. The "super series" for the Western Conference championship matched the Bucks against the Los Angeles Lakers, a contingent that had run a 33 game winning streak during the season before being derailed by the Bucks on January 9. The Bucks battled the Lakers in six exciting games before falling four games to two.

The Bucks completed the 1972-73 season with a 60-22 record, the only NBA team in history to post sixty or more wins in three consecutive seasons. The sixty wins were posted despite an unusual season which found the Bucks plagued by injuries. Coach Costello had his full roster available for barely more than half of the 82 game schedule. The Bucks finished the year with an NBA record of 14 straight victories to end the season, and entered the first round of the playoffs against Golden State. Possibly wearied by the whirlwind of winning the 14 games and the final race with the Lakers for the Western Conference title, the Bucks were surprised by a deep Golden State team, and fell 4-2 in the opening round.

Kareem and Big O

The Bucks were one game short of their fourth consecutive season with 60 regular season wins or more in 1973-74, finishing the season with a 59-23 record. Numerous injuries during the season often put the Bucks in a manpower shortage situation, but the club rallied to offset the absence of various players at different times of the year. The most serious injury sidelined Lucius Allen for the last few games of the season and all of the playoffs. Allen tore a cartilage in his knee in a game March 15 in Detroit, and underwent surgery the following day. The Bucks again topped the Midwest Division and eliminated Los Angeles 4-1 in the playoffs and dispatched Chicago without delay 4-0. In the championship round against Boston, the Bucks faced a troublesome press that continually dogged their game. The series was highlighted by a double-overtime sixth game which the Bucks won in Boston, to knot the series at 3-3. In the NBA Championship round's final seventh game, the Bucks were defeated by the Celts 102-87.

In 1974-75 the Bucks endured what might have been their most frustrating season on record. A pre-season broken hand kept Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sidelined for the first sixteen games of the season and the club was 3-13, putting themselves too far behind Midwest Division rivals to ever recover. A mid-season knee injury to All Star guard Jim Price sidelined him for the last half of the season. Kareem, Price and Bob Dandridge were named to the All Star team, the first time in club history that three members had been named to the honor squad. Although the Costello trademark of defense was upheld (the club's allowance of 100.7 points per game was the fifth best in the league), their 38-44 record put them in last place in the Midwest Division. The club's longest winning streak of the year was five games, and the team stayed in contention for the wild card playoff berth until the last week of the season. The Bucks lost 18 games during this fretful year by five points or less, and 11 of those losses were by three points or fewer. Kareem was third in the NBA in scoring while Bob Dandridge finished 18th with a 19.9 point per game clip.

On June 16, 1975 the Bucks executed one of the most momentous trades in pro basketball history by sending Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and reserve center Walt Welsey to the Los Angeles Lakers in exchange for center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters, and two All-American rookies, David Meyers and Junior Bridgeman. The Milwaukee Bucks entered the 1975-76 season with a new, young running team, perhaps the youngest in the NBA.

Jon McGlocklin

The young talent faltered at first, losing the first five games of the season before posting a win over Detroit on November 4, 1975. As the season progressed, all four players obtained from Los Angeles for Abdul-Jabbar proved to make important contributions. Smith became a consistent performer at center, leading the team in rebounding during the season with a 11.4 per game average. Brian Winters put his marksmanship to work to average over 18 points per game and make the NBA West All Stars. Winters started in all 78 games he played. Bridgeman played both guard and forward well, started in 19 games and averaged over 20 minutes per game. Meyers showed outstanding rebound potential, banging the boards hard in 34 starts at the strong forward slot. Slowed by a knee injury, he rallied to have an outstanding playoff series against Detroit.

The Bucks posted a 38-44 record in 1975-76, identical to that achieved by the Los Angeles Lakers and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Bob Dandridge was named to the NBA West All Stars and had his best season ever, averaging 21.5 points per game while ranking among the top ten scorers in the league. The Bucks finished first in the Midwest Division for the fifth time in eight seasons. The Milwaukeeans were beat in the first round of the best-of-three playoff series 2-1 by Detroit. Coach Larry Costello signed a new two year pact just prior to the playoffs. In the 1976 college draft the Bucks selected Indiana All American and U.S. Olympian Quinn Buckner in the first round.

The 1976-77 season saw a major shakeup within the organization. Just 18 games into the season Larry Costello resigned as Head Coach and Don Nelson took over the reigns. Other changes came about involving the club's management structure. A group headed by James F. Fitzgerald, William J. Blake, and J. P. Cullen and Son Corporation purchased 361,000 outstanding shares of Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services common stock. Mr. Fitzgerald became Chairman of the Board and President of the corporation. Wayne Embry, formerly General Manager of the club, became a consultant thus relinquishing his duties on a day-to-day basis. What was formerly Embry's duties were then split between Don Nelson who handles player personnel matters and John Steinmiller who was promoted to Director of Business Operations in charge of the day-to-day functions of the club. On the court Bob Dandridge turned in a solid performance averaging 20.8 points over the season. Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman also averaged in double figures as did Sven Nater who was traded to Cleveland which gave Milwaukee the first round draft choice they used to obtain Marques Johnson. Record-wise the 1976-77 season was a meager 30 wins against 52 losses. But to offset that mark was perhaps the best draft by any professional team in history. Behind the direction of Rick Sund, Don Nelson, and Wayne Embry the club drafted and subsequently signed three first round choices in Kent Benson, Marques Johnson, and Ernie Grunfeld. John Killilea, once a scout for the Bucks and more recently assistant coach of the Boston Celtics, joined Don Nelson in the coaching ranks as assistant coach and assistant Director of Player Personnel.

Bob Dandridge

The 1977-78 season parlayed an exceptional draft of Benson, Johnson, and Grunfeld along with veterans Bridgeman, Buckner, Meyers, and Winters into an exciting season for a young team that as of yet did not have valuable playoff experience. Milwaukee finished the regular season with a 44-38 record. The fate of the playoff hopeful Bucks hinged upon Seattle beating Golden State on the final game of the 902 game NBA regular season schedule. The scene was a frustrating one for the Bucks as players, coaches, and fans alike stood anxiously by listening to the radio for a special play-by-play feed of the Sonics-Warriors game. Everyone felt helpless as their fate rested with a game they weren't playing. Seattle defeated Golden State sending the Bucks to pack the bathing suits in Milwaukee to head for Phoenix. Milwaukee swept the Suns 2-0 in the mini-series advancing to the Midwest Division final. It took Denver a tough seven games and the home court advantage to defeat Milwaukee and end a championship dream for the "Green and Growing" Bucks.

The image the Bucks created that year was one of youth and hope. The first full season under Don Nelson saw some changes, not all of which were on the court. The Bucks adopted their new familiar three-toned green striping on their uniforms and other paraphenalia, came out with a 45 record entitled Green and Growing, and numerous other exciting concepts. The result of all this could be felt at the gate where the Bucks averaged 10,711.15 fans (.97012%) to top their all time attendance records. Also that year the Bucks set an all time NBA record by winning eight overtime games.

In the next season, 1978-79, everyone expected Milwaukee to surpass their successes of the previous year. What with the core of the 1977-78 team intact, it was an easy assumption to make. But before the season began a vital cog on the Bucks club was lost. Alex English went to the Indiana Pacers via the free agent market. Then Dave Meyers was lost for all 82 games of the regular season due to a back injury. Those losses coupled with a few key injuries, saw the Bucks reversing their 44-38 record of the prior year to 38-44 and missing a playoff berth.

There were some bright spots however. Marques Johnson was named to the NBA All-Star team receiving more fan votes than any other player in the Western Conference. Later, Johnson was named to the NBA All-League team as a first team forward. Marques finished third in the NBA in scoring with a 25.6 average which was highest among all forwards and centers in the league. Junior Bridgeman finished the season with a 15.5 average, tops among all regular sixth men in the league. Kent Benson improved greatly over his rookie campaign while Brian Winters had his best scoring season ever. The Bucks 38-44 record placed them tied at third with Indiana in the Midwest Division. The club came on strong towards the end and won 16 of their last 26 games (.615%) including 6 wins in their last 9 road games. Milwaukee also shattered the NBA assist record with 2,562 on the year for a 31.2 average. The total attendance mark of 443,926 broke all the records set one season before. The marks include 32 sellouts, an average of 10,827, and a capacity of 99%.

Jim Fitzgerald
Chairman of the Board and President

So often you hear it said that the standard and practices for a company are set at the top of the pyramid. Virtually nowhere is that more true than within the Milwaukee Bucks organizaton which is headed by Jim Fitzgerald, Chairman of the Board and President.

When Fitzgerald took over controlling interests of the club in October of 1976, he put into effect a five year plan designed towards building Milwaukee into a championship contender. "The foundation of the plan is that basketball is a team game," explains Fitzgerald. "The one-on-one teams in basketball never win championships. The team concept transcends the court and literally includes everyone in the organization, and properly done includes the fans and the whole city.

"If the plan works then our biggest problem will be to keep it going," says Fitzgerald. "If the plan fails . . . " From there Fitzgerald gropes for words. It is clear he has put an extraordinary amount of effort into the plan and has so much faith in it, not to succeed would be inconceivable in his mind.

Now in the middle of that five year plan, Fitzgerald is beginning to focus on certain aspects of the business end of the operation, most notably the Arena situation and the prospects of cable television, of which he owns Total TV in Janesville and other cable companies in Illinois and Florida.

Currently housed in the smallest permanent NBA facility (the New Jersey Nets will move to a new 20,000 seat arena in the Meadowlands in 1981), the Bucks most certainly will need a high seating capacity to operate in the black five years down the road. "The fans, the press, everybody is paranoid about the situation with the Arena," Fitzgerald said while noting that he has every intention of keeping the franchise in Milwaukee.

In the same light, he hopes Milwaukee builds a new arena. "There's a trap I'm trying to avoid here," he said, pondering. "That is that the decision to build a new arena should be based on the needs of Milwaukee and not on the needs of the Bucks." To stress his point, Fitzgerald points out, "If the City of Milwaukee views itself as a major metro area with other cities, is a new facility necessary to remain competitive for the city?" That is a question Fitzgerald would just as soon leave up to the civic officials and it is a project a county commission is currently studying. The second area of attention on the business end of the operation revolves around Fitzgerald's cable television interests. The National Basketball Association and all other major sports leagues are currently battling the big cable stations over rebroadcast consent. Cable companies are making money by bouncing telecasts of NBA games off one of two satellites that revolve over the equator, and they're not sharing the profits with the teams or with the leagues.

Since Fitzgerald has dual interests in both basketball and cable television it's not nearly as damaging as it is to franchises that lack that connection. But with the technology and regulations in Washington in a constant state of flux, it's not easy to get a handle on just where all this will lead and just how it will effect the future of the Milwaukee Bucks.

"The emphasis right now in Washington is deregulation," Fitzgerald said. "They've deregulated the airlines. They've deregulated the truckers. They're deregulating cable. Which is great. Because we had our hands tied behind our backs with all the rules.

"They're just plain opening it up for competition every place they can. When that happens, no one exactly knows where cable television will be. We haven't had the time to sort it all out. But the entrepeneurs and the guys with vision and excitement can operate, where before they just couldn't."

In the meantime, Fitzgerald views the economic future of the NBA thusly, "There are two groups — the haves and the have-nots. The haves are the large markets like New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, and New Jersey. The other 17 teams, including us, are the have-nots."

Concerning players' high salaries, Fitzgerald doesn't really have any gripes. "It's up to what the market will bear. I have no quarrel with that. The bad part of a player's contract is guaranteeing larger salaries and then discovering a player doesn't have the skills. Or say, for example, because of the guarantee it becomes a negative motivation. Fortunately, we have not had that problem in the Bucks organization." Which is another reason why Milwaukee fans are happy with the Bucks. "What's really nice about Milwaukee is that its fans will allow you to build a team." After seven years of involvement with the Bucks, including the past four as President and Chairman of the Board, Fitzgerald reflects upon his experience. "I would say that if one single thing struck me more than anything else, it is the fact that Milwaukee is truly one of the great sports cities in America. The Milwaukee fans have instincts and insights far ahead of those in other cities. The two factors that we're generating are excitement and hope, feelings that the Milwaukee fans understand and appreciate."

And for the first half of this decade Fitzgerald notes, "It is our goal to win the World Championship. And the means to that end is to get in the playoffs. What's interesting is that over half of the previous NBA champions did not have the best record in the East or the West. That's why I think our chances of making it to the top, especially with our talent and depth, isn't too far off."

Aside from his duties with the Bucks, Fitzgerald is also heavily involved with the NBA through three separate committees. With his cable television background, he's a natural as the Chairman of the NBA TV committee. And with his general "people" attitude, he's also a valuable contributor to the player relations and pension committees.

Fitzgerald, a self-proclaimed "family man," likes to think of the Bucks as a close-knit group. He and his wife, Marilyn, attended most of the Bucks home games and many on the road. "She likes the Bucks as much as I do," Fitzgerald said. "I guess we both think of them as an extension of our family."

Fitzgerald's own children (he has six) range in age from 17 to 28. Son Mike lives in Tempe, Arizona; Marcia is married and lives in Madison; Brian and Jim, Jr. live in Janesville and are employed by Total TV. Another daughter, Carolyn, is married and lives in Janesville, and Ellen goes to Vanguard School in Lake Wales, Florida.

Wayne Embry
Vice President and Consultant

As a charter member of the Milwaukee Bucks, Wayne Embry has moved from pivot to Vice President, with stops as player personnel director and general manager in the twelve year history of the franchise. Last July he was named to the 14-member Board of Directors of the Milwaukee Bucks.

Embry, 43, in his 23rd year of professional basketball involvement, left his full-time position with the Bucks, and together with Sherman Claypool, formed a corporation that controls three area McDonald's restaurants. The corporation that features the Big Mac got a big man, in physical stature and otherwise, when Embry and Claypool began to manage the restaurants on North Avenue, Capitol Drive, and near the State Street entrance to the Arena.

Embry's big physical stature is clear to anybody who sees him. As former Buck Russell Lee put it, "Wayne is always the biggest dude around."

When one talks to Embry, the quality and quantity of character also becomes clear. For instance, when asked about his work with young players, and youth in general, Embry says, "There are a lot of youngsters out there with no direction and I've always felt if I can provide some direction and help somebody have a better life, it's well worth it. You develop compassion for young players, in fact for young people in general, not just basketball players.

"The company I'm involved in now gives over $5,000 a year to scholarships for young people, and I try to contribute in other ways."

The "class" also is evident in how Embry, through his personnel and general manager roles, helped build the Bucks organization. "We tried to emphasize that we wanted to draft players with character," Embry said. "Maybe some of the players with a little less ability but who were willing to sacrifice and develop a team concept. The team is an extension of the people putting the team together to a degree. We wanted to put together a team that would represent Milwaukee well, win or lose.

"I'm very proud of the players we now have. I believe they are capable of winning, eventually of winning the championship. They also have the reputation of being class human beings. Whether they are playing basketball, or whatever they are doing, they would do it well, with a lot of class."

Embry always went first class as a player, too. A native of Springfield, Ohio, he starred in basketball and despite his 250-plus pounds he played only one year of high school football. "I played football my junior year, but then quit to concentrate on basketball," he said.

Embry also starred in basketball at Miami of Ohio and was drafted in 1958 by the St. Louis Hawks, who traded him to the Cincinnati Royals before he had played a minute. Embry played eight seasons with the Royals, making it to five playoffs and five All-Star Games. He averaged about 13 points a game and was known as an excellent rebounder. "I was shorter than most centers, but tried to make up for it with strength and intelligence."

With the Royals, Embry also played with Oscar Robertson, who he later would be reunited with on the Bucks. "Oscar came two years after I had been at Cincinnati," Embry recalled. "In my opinion, he was the best. He certainly complimented me well."

In 1966, Embry was traded to the Boston Celtics, where he spent much of the next two seasons backing up Bill Russell. He also played on the 1967-68 NBA Champion Celtic team.

The Bucks drafted Embry in the expansion draft of 1968. "Coming to Milwaukee and an expansion franchise was a different experience, although my first couple years at Cincinnati almost were like playing with an expansion team because we had a lot of young players," Embry said. "But playing here was interesting. We had a blend of some veteran players and some young guys, who I tried to help a little."

Embry averaged 13.1 points a game and 8.6 rebounds during his one year as a playing Buck. Then, he retired. "The Bucks asked me to stay on in administration at that time, but I wanted to get back to Boston. I did go back and for two years was the city's recreation director. Then they convinced me to come back here and when I did I grew to really like Milwaukee."

During his years in administration, Embry earned the reputation as a good judge of talent and a "straight shooter" with the players.

Embry, along with Jon McGlocklin, is one of two original Bucks still with the organization. He is an active member of the Milwaukee community as well as charitable and service organizations nationally.

The Embry family consists of wife Terri, daughters Debbie, 19; Jill, 18; and Wayne Jr. 16.

John Steinmiller
Vice President — Business Operations

With ten seasons of involvement in the Milwaukee Bucks organization, John Steinmiller has a wealth of experiences to draw upon in his role as Vice President in charge of Business Operations for the club. Steinmiller is responsible for the Bucks' day-to-day business operations, marketing and sponsor merchandising, game promotions, long-range planning and coordination of club affairs with Don Nelson.

Steinmiller implements the business principles best suited for the Milwaukee market and works closely with Jim Fitzgerald, President of the Milwaukee Bucks. It was Fitzgerald who recognized Steinmiller's superior performance in promoting him during the off-season from Director of Business Operations to Vice President.

One can see where Steinmiller's influences have come from, most notably two "people" persons in Jim Fitzgerald and Wayne Embry. "We try to take a personal approach to every phase of the operation," says Steinmiller. "I consider it an important part of my responsibility to provide our people that extra working space to be individuals and at the same time help our team on and off the floor. Every person within our organization, from the players to the ticket personnel, has an important role in our product." His philosophies are most strongly noted in the club's player personnel area, sponsor merchandising, season ticket holder relations, and many other sectors of the business.

The past three seasons the Bucks have set and broken their all-time attendance marks, bettering the mark each year to the current level of 99% attendance. Those record sellouts just don't happen spontaneously. "We plan, project, and sell with a record sellout year in mind every season. Sooner or later something will have to happen to help us raise our goals. I try to orient every individual within the organization to the fact that sellouts and victories are our goal."

A 1970 graduate of Marquette University with a B.A. in journalism, John worked for the Bucks on a part-time basis while going to college. At Marquette he served as president of the student body his senior year. He joined the club full-time in January of 1971 as an administrative assistant for the Bucks' summer camps, with additional duties in the ticket and promotional areas. He worked up through the ranks, serving as the club's public relations director for five seasons before assuming his current position, which he has held for three seasons.

Away from the basketball spectrum, Steinmiller is secretary-treasurer of the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund and is a member of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Milwaukee, while being active in the Big Brother program. On behalf of the club, he makes numerous speaking engagements at Milwaukee area service club meetings, banquets, career day programs, and other sports-oriented award dinners.

A native of Mt. Prospect, Illinois, he attended St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights. John and his wife Corinne live on Milwaukee's east side.

Don Nelson
Head Coach
Director of Player Personnel

The Friday noon fish fry at Turner Hall. Willie Nelson's Stardust album. A slow round of golf with a friendly wager on the side. A large side order of applesauce. No applesauce? Then peaches will do just fine. Sitting in the Summerfest sun soaking in live country music with an ear of corn in one hand and a rack of ribs in the other.

Pretty simple pleasures. Not unusual, probably a lot like the guy next door. Except that these pleasures are part of Don Nelson's life. They're squeezed right in between the layups, timeouts, strategy sessions, endless scouting jaunts, technical fouls, and other factors that make up the standard NBA coach's season. The pleasures aren't unusual—the coach very well might be.

Don Nelson, at 40 years of age, played fourteen years in the League before surrendering. During that period he collected five Boston Celtic Championship rings, a string of 465 consecutive games played, over 10,000 points made, bruises, a bad back, and a reputation for playing aggressive (not dirty, he says) basketball. Nelson was the underdog's favorite. How many other NBA players that were cut from one club ever ended up playing on another team's five title squads?

Now, in his fifth year of NBA coaching, his fourth full season as head coach, Nelson can recall the beginning of his coaching career. "I knew I wanted to stay in the game, but I wasn't sure where or how. I tried officiating in the L.A. Summer League, but I don't think it was my best shot at staying in the game. Wayne Embry made the assistant coaching position in Milwaukee available to me, and I welcomed the chance to break into coaching slowly under Larry Costello," Nelson recollects. "Slowly meant two months of introduction. After sixteen games during the 1976-77 season, I became the head coach. It wasn't really what I had planned, but in retrospect, I didn't have a lot of time to think about it. All of a sudden I was head coach and there were games to be won. Forget about breaking in slowly and learning without the pressure. The reality was there . . . I had to cope with it."

Don Nelson's club won 27 games that first unexpected season. The following year the Bucks won 44 games and became a Cinderella entry on the post-season playoffs, knocking off favored Phoenix in two straight before falling to Denver in a seven game set. The coach had coped with the reality. The 1978-79 season was a setback, as injuries and an aversion to road victories allowed but 38 wins. And last year's playoff contender won 49 games and fell to Seattle in a seven game playoff series that many called the best playoff series of the year.

Two playoff teams in his three full seasons of coaching. Not bad, worthy of commendation. But Nelson isn't one for praise or pats on the back. "My concept of coaching revolves around teamwork, not individual efforts by players or coaches. We win and lose as a unit. Commitment from players and coaches is important. I'm not a great coach, perhaps I'll never be a great coach. But I'll always get better, and I'll always be learning. In this business, there are few great coaches, the talent of the players is just too good for any coach to take bows night in night out."

If he won't accept credit, he'll give it out. To those who have helped him, influenced him, shared with him. "Red Auerbach has influenced me the most. I always found him to be an interesting person, dating back to my younger days as a Celtic. Red always shared his ideas and concepts, was successful in what he did, and was respected for what he did. And to me, respect is probably most important. As a coach, I may not be liked, but respect of my players is important. Red Auerbach gave and earned respect. And my years in Boston proved to me that there is something to establishing a winning environment. Much of what I do as a coach is influenced by Red Auerbach. Team attitude, the idea of timing and execution of plays, many things that I do began when I experienced them as a player in Boston."

The fact that Nelson is also Director of Player Personnel, allows him the freedom to select his type of players and coaching staff, to shape a team that is truly "his". That's why Nelson is often pointedly possessive when referring to "my team", "my players", "my guys". After four years, it is his team. And his assistants, John Killilea and Dave Wohl, are his choices to work alongside him, contributing importantly to that winning unit.

"John Killilea is a valuable co-coach to me. He's a sounding board, an innovator, a perfectionist, a true technician of the game. Having come out of the Boston tradition like myself, I trust his judgement and ideas."

When back surgery shelved Nelson last season, Killilea stepped in and with minimum reworking served as head coach until Nelson recovered. The back surgery, the aftermath of an early career playing injury, was more serious than anyone knew. His return, which totaled about ten days including hospitalization, surgery (disc removal), and recovery, was far quicker than anyone expected.

Nelson, the Player Personnel Director, is a tireless planner and strategist. He enjoys the intrigue of trying to obtain high draft choices while giving up little more than last year's sneakers. He probes, kibitzes, and cajoles. He projects, plans, and plots. "I enjoy the search for college talent and consider the college draft to be an exciting time of the year. It's hard to draft that diamond in the rough—there just aren't any secrets—but it is a challenge to keep trying."

As a former player, what does he look for in selecting players for his team? "I want NBA caliber talent, court-sense, a positive attitude, and an endless desire to win. I don't want inconsistent play, immaturity, or an unwillingness to sacrifice for team goals."

How does one find those players? "By judgement, luck, intuition, and study. There's certainly no formula. But I enjoy scouting for talent. I enjoy watching college games, observing individuals and teams. The best part of my job is that I can not only select the talent, I can also coach it."

Thus, it's not hard to understand why Nelson relishes the current year with talents like Marques, Brian and Junior on his squad. Couple that with the pleasure of watching the development of Sidney Moncrief, Pat Cummings, players whom he coached as rookies, and Nelson's job is a self-fulfilling one. "I enjoy coaching, but I'll always coach as if it's a must-win situation. I don't like to lose. I'll always put pressure on myself, I don't imagine to the fan it will ever appear as if I'm having a good time on the sidelines."

That's true. Nelson's energy level bounces from super-high to super-low on the bench. A jumping, clapping, pirouette may be followed by a sudden slumping, dejected, bundle of arms and legs. Officials' calls seem to dictate much of the reaction, but a perfectly executed pass or defensive gem never goes unnoticed or unappreciated.

"In basketball, the officials really are an important part of the game. I think it's because there are more judgement calls than in other sports. I suppose that makes it a little more frustrating. I don't think there's another sport where the officials can control or be such an important part of the game as they are in basketball," the one time officiating aspirant says.

When the season's over, and the draft is done, when there are more than just a few days before training camp, Nelson has found golf to his liking. "At one time I thought it was a waste of time, but then I became better at it, played more, and felt more relaxed than bored, I started to like the game." He swears the discovery that calcutta was not just a city in India had nothing to do with it. His partners know better.

The Nelson family, which shares husband and family with a never ending love for the game of basketball, has grown up in the arenas, at the summer camps, and with the ups and downs that can only be traced to a career in pro sports. Sharon Nelson met Don in the Quad Cities area around Rock Island. She shared the college career at Iowa and the later Celtic years along with four children. Julie, 19, attends Wheaton College in Illinois. Son Donn, 18, plays basketball at Brookfield Central, where daughter Chris, 16, also attends school. Katie, 13, threatens to be a womens basketball force to be reckoned with someday. The Nelson gang lives in Brookfield.

How has Nelson adapted to Milwaukee after four years? "I love the city and its people. It's a super place to live and unmatched as a sports town. The situation with the Bucks is a unique one. There aren't many organizations with the solid ownership and management that the Bucks have. I enjoy the off-season in Milwaukee a lot, there's always something going on." Nelson's sudden interest in golf has made him a sought after participant in pro-am tournaments. Last summer he played in the GMO, Vince Lombardi and Quad Cities Open. He won a closest-to-the-pin contest at the Lombardi.

Don Nelson won't overwhelm you. He's sometimes shy and unassuming, often quiet and isn't out to impress. He'd just as soon talk to you one-on-one as try to impress you with his speechmaking talents. His folksy, act natural approach is refreshing, interesting, and Milwaukee-suited. He's the guy next door who just happens to be the Head Coach of the Milwaukee Bucks. Pass the applesauce.

John Killilea
Assistant Coach and Assistant Director of Player Personnel

He frowns and fumes and frets, and grips the bench so hard that his knuckles turn white — a Mt. Vesuvius, ready to explode. A questionable call, and the volcano erupts. He's on his feet, fire in his eyes, yelling and gesturing wildly with his ever-present yellow pad, straight gray hair flopping onto his face. And that withering look he flashes toward the offending referee . . . if looks could kill.

His nickname is, indeed, "Killer." His glare is pure venom. He projects an "angry man" image. But that's just one dimension of the Milwaukee Bucks' hard-driving assistant coach, John Killilea.

The transplanted Bostonian and former high school coach works side-by-side with Head Coach Don Nelson. While his public profile is low keyed, his contributions are far broader than most realize.

Killer is the Bucks' man in motion, a supersleuth who flies from city to city probing the secrets of the Bucks' future opponents, spying out their weaknesses. He sandwiches his scouting trips between Bucks' practices, few of which he misses, and games.

"Some nights I wake up in a hotel and for a minute or two I don't even remember what city I'm in," says the 51-year-old, 200,000-air-miles-a-year man. Rarely is he in an NBA town for more than a day — often it's only a matter of hours.

"There are times when you lose track of what day of the week it is," he adds. "We don't have weekends off, so one day is just like the other."

As the Bucks' chief analyst, Killilea fills reams of that yellow legal paper with neat sketches of the favorite plays of the other 22 pro clubs. Defense is his specialty, and his sharp eye has been a critical factor in the Bucks success the past few seasons.

"It's awfully reassuring to go into a game knowing pretty well what plays the other team will be running in crucial situations," says the Bucks' Junior Bridgeman. "Killer prepares us defensively as well as any club in the circuit."

Head Coach Don Nelson says, "I don't really regard Killer as an assistant coach. I may have the title of head coach, but we're actually co-coaches. We've been together a long time and our coaching philosophies are 99% similar. We're very compatible."

Nelson, who suggested Killilea for the head coaching position in Milwaukee before being named himself, paused a moment, then added, "Killer has a better knowledge of the mechanics of the game than I do. He has a great background in basketball fundamentals. After all, he coached high school ball 18 years.

"We've given him more roles and responsibilities than probably any other assistant coach in pro ball."

As Nelson's assistant, Killilea directs a good part of each practice, handles 80% of the team's pro scouting, helps Nelson in making decisions at each game, and acts as an assistant director of player personnel.

So when Nelson had to take some time off for back surgery last season, he had no qualms about leaving his team in Killilea's hands.

When push comes to shove, Killilea feels the defensive aspects of the game are what wins games. He ponders ways to contain the George Gervin's and the Lloyd Free's of the League. "Look, there's no surefire way you can stop them. You just rig up your defenses so the rest of the team can help out the man isolated on him. Take a guy like Pete Maravich. He's going to get his 26 points no matter what you do. But you try to make him shoot 25 times to get those points, rather than 15."

And Killilea has also studied the fans. "The average fan misses the weak side action, away from the ball. He watches the ball, so he probably sees only two or three of the offensive players."

This is actually Killilea's second stint with the Bucks. A 1952 graduate of Boston University, Killilea scouted for Milwaukee before his five-year association with the Boston Celtics as an assistant coach.

During the off-season, John runs summer basketball camps for youths in Massachusetts, where he once coached state high school championship teams. He also works with the Bucks draftees in summer leagues, camps, and other settings.

John and his wife, Eli, are the parents of Kevin, 21; Richie, 18; Tanja, 13; and Lee, 12, and live in Brookfield.

Dave Wohl
Assistant Coach

Dave Wohl is in his first full season as an assistant coach for the Milwaukee Bucks. Last season Wohl served as an interim assistant coach during the period in which Head Coach Don Nelson was out with his back ailment. When Nelson returned to the bench after back surgery, Wohl was retained for the remainder of the season. Along with his on the bench game duties, Dave will scout the Bucks NBA opponents and assist in practice sessions.

A native New Yorker, Wohl played his high school ball in East Brunswick, New Jersey and was recruited by the University of Pennsylvania for football. That transpired into an illustrious college basketball career. An All-Ivy League Performer, Wohl helped Penn to a 53-3 record and two NCAA berths his junior and senior years.

A third round pick of Philadelphia in 1971, Dave was the first Penn player ever taken by the 76ers. As a rookie with the Sixers he trailed only Billy Cunningham and Hal Greer in assists. From Philly, he was traded to Portland for Dale Schleuter prior to the 1972-73 season, waived in December of 1972 , and picked up by Buffalo. From there he went to the Houston Rockets along with Kevin Kunnert in February of 1974 in a swap for Matt Guokas and Jack Marin. Wohl played for Houston two seasons posting a career high 29 points after beating out Calvin Murphy for a starting spot.

Fourteen games into the 1976-77 season Wohl's contract was purchased outright by the New Jersey Nets where he wound up his playing days with a career average of 6.2 points and 3.4 assists.

Wohl started last season as head coach and general manager of the Philadelphia Fox of the Women's Basketball League and continued in that capacity until the club folded December 21, 1979. From then until the time he joined the Bucks, Dave had been negotiating with a group in Yugoslavia to coach there but tabled a planned trip to Europe for the opportunity in Milwaukee.

Wohl played with Brian Winters in the Jersey Shore Summer Basketball League in Neptune, New Jersey several seasons ago and coached Harvey Catchings to an MVP performance in Philadelphia's Baker League the summer of '79. This past summer, Wohl directed four Milwaukee Bucks draftees in a five week program in the Jersey Shore League.

A history major at Penn, Wohl owned an art gallery in Houston while he was with the Rockets. His younger brother, Roy, accompanied him on the sidelines for Fox games as an assistant coach. Previously, Roy played college ball at East Stoudsburg State College in Pennsylvania and in Europe for two years.

Garry St. Jean
Scout

Garry St. Jean joined the Milwaukee Bucks organization just prior to training camp this season, after coaching on the high school level in Massachusetts the past eight years.

"He's a hard working, dedicated basketball man," said Head Coach Don Nelson. "Primarily he will scout prospective college players for us with an eye toward the June draft. I've known Garry for close to ten years and feel he'll represent us well."

St. Jean was born and raised in Chicopee, Massachusetts. He was All-State in basketball and soccer at Chicopee High School and was named one of Parade Magazine's top 500 high school basketball players in 1968.

From Chicopee, St. Jean went on to the birthplace of basketball in Springfield, Massachusetts where he played basketball and soccer for Springfield College. He captained both the basketball and soccer squads his freshman and sophomore years before a series of three knee operations curtailed his athletic endeavors.

St. Jean earned his undergraduate and master's degrees in Physical Education and has completed course work toward his doctorate in education.

St. Jean was named the head basketball coach of his high school alma mater, Chicopee High School, his senior year in college. In eight years of varsity competition, his teams posted a cumulative record of 122-65 (.652) and qualified for the Massachusetts State High School Tournament seven times.

A bachelor, St. Jean resides in Milwaukee when not on one of his extensive scouting expeditions.

Jeff Snedeker
Trainer and Traveling Secretary

When Jeff Snedeker joined the club as trainer and traveling secretary in the summer of 1979, he brought with him twenty years of experience as a head trainer. Jeff's primary concerns are for the well being of the players and attending to their day-to-day needs where minor injuries are concerned. He also handles player conditioning, preventative treatment, travel coordination, and on-the-bench game duties.

Treating player injuries is nothing new for the 43-year-old native of Yonkers, New York. For 14 seasons, from 1963 to 1977, Snedeker served as the head trainer for the New York Jets of the National Football League. During that time, the Jets were winners of Super Bowl III in 1969, and Snedeker was a major force behind the treatment of Joe Namath's infamous knees.

Following his lengthy stint in the NFL, Snedeker spent two seasons, from 1977 to 1979, with the New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League. During that time, the Cosmos won the NASL crown, and Jeff treated world-renowned Pele while touring internationally with the club.

Possesser of a Master of Science degree in athletic training from Indiana University, Snedeker's first look at professional basketball came prior to his joining the Bucks. He was a trainer for visiting NBA teams at Madison Square Garden in 1965, and acted as substitute trainer for the New York Knicks in 1966.

Snedeker has conducted research during the off-season in the area of strength testing and flexibility at the Institute for Sports Medicine and Athletic Trauma at Lenox Hospital in New York City. He was also a part-time lecturer in physical education at Barnard College in New York while also teaching graduate courses in sports medicine.

Snedeker has also been a guest lecturer at various meetings of a host of organizations including the American College of Sports Medicine, the National Athletic Trainer's Association, The Sports Medicine Clinic of Seattle, The New York Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and the New Jersey Academy of Family Physicians.

The Bucks trainer is a member of the American College of Sports Medicine, The National Athletic Trainer's Association, The Eastern Athletic Trainer's Association, and the New York State Athletic Trainer's Association.

Snedeker, who estimates that he's taped over 10,000 ankles in his career, says he doesn't foresee any real change in the type or frequency of injuries. "But I think guys are getting bigger, stronger, and faster than in the past, because we know of new conditioning techniques. If a guy isn't in condition to play a sport, he's not going to be able to perform, no matter what."

A life-long New York resident, Snedeker said he's found the transition from the East Coast to the Midwest to be a smooth one. "People are people. They're the same all over. I like it here in Milwaukee. It's clean and friendly, and a perfect setting since I'm German and my wife is Polish." Speaking of people, Snedeker said he has fond memories whenever he thinks about his past. "I've found the bigger the name of the player, the better the guy. Namath was a class person, and so was Pele. And for that matter, so are the people here."

Jeff and his wife Joyce have four children: Cheryl, 21; Connie, 18; and 13-year-old twins, Karen and Kathy. The family resides in Whitefish Bay.

Bill King II
Director of Publicity

As Director of Publicity for the Milwaukee Bucks, Bill King's responsibilities are wide ranging beginning with the day-to-day public relations functions of the club to scheduling public appearances by the players.

King entered the NBA as one of the youngest publicists in professional sports and at 25 remains so while ranking eighth in seniority among NBA public relations directors. His duties include the writing and editing of news releases, media guides, the Hoop game program, a column for Pro Report/Milwaukee Bucks, and other official publications of the club. He is responsible for the management of home games in the Milwaukee Arena with special attention to press accommodations, the statistical crew, game notes, and photography. It is through King that promotional appearances of the Bucks players and front office staff are arranged along with the distribution of the Bucks film library. He is also involved in the production of the segments seen at halftime of the Bucks televised games on WVTV-Channel 18.

A native of Neptune City, New Jersey, King is a graduate of Neptune High School where he was involved in a host of extracurricular activities. He went on to become the youngest full-time Sports information Director in the nation at Morris Harvey College (now the University of Charleston), in Charleston, West Virginia. While serving as the Morris Harvey Sports Information Director, King's publications received numerous national awards from CoSIDA. King was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities while at Morris Harvey, an award he also received on the high school level.

During the summer months through high school and college, King honed his statistical skills as publicist and statistician for the Jersey Shore Summer Basketball League in Neptune, a loop in which the Bucks participated this past summer. While in that capacity King was tagged with the title "Superstat" by a local sportscaster.

King joined the Bucks after serving a brief stint as the Assistant Promotions Director at Tulane University in New Orleans.

During the off-season, King enjoys water and jet skiing as well as body surfing during trips to the east coast.

Ron Blomberg
Administrative Assistant

As one of two administrative assistants with the Milwaukee Bucks, Ron Blomberg's main duties are as Director of the Milwaukee Bucks' Summer Basketball Camp program. The camps are a unique basketball education division of the Milwaukee Bucks that operates week-long, day and boarding camps for young players aged 8 to 18 throughout the midwest.

Blomberg has now been with the Bucks for over a decade. He has a wealth of experience on which to draw as he coached on the high school level in Wisconsin for 22 years. Ron graduated from the University of Wisconsin and was a member of the varsity basketball squad there for three years. His coaching career began in Peshtigo, Wisconsin, and during his six years there his teams notched three basketball championships. He coached 12 years at Brookfield Central High School, in Brookfield, Wisconsin and coached five league championship squads there. His 1964-65 team placed fourth in the Wisconsin state tournament.

Ron pioneered the summer basketball camp program in Wisconsin. His thorough understanding of the game, coupled with his teaching talents, are naturals for the camp program, which drew nearly 4,000 youngsters to Bucks' camps last summer and an estimated 25,000 since the inception of the program.

As a clinic speaker and general lecturer, Ron is much in demand to service clubs in and around the Milwaukee area. Nicknamed "The Professor" several years ago while performing the color commentary for the Bucks radio broadcasts, Ron occasionally steps behind the mike on various pro, college, and high school games.

He and his wife LaVerne are the parents of two sons and two daughters and live in suburban Brookfield.

Bea Westfahl
Ticket Manager

A ten year veteran on the front office staff of the Milwaukee Bucks, Bea Westphal faces myriad duties as ticket and office manager. Mrs. Westfahl directs the entire ticket operation, including processing season tickets, over the counter sales, mail, phone, and group orders, as well as supervising sales through the computerized Ticketron outlets. It is Bea who personally helps each and every one of the nearly 6,000 season ticketholders selects their individual seats. It is no small task to account for the nearly one half million tickets that must be processed each season. The task becomes monumental, but enjoyable, with every season the Bucks qualify for the playoffs. Bea directs a staff of five who assist her in running a smooth operation.

Mrs. Westfahl joined the club in November of 1969. Previously she worked at Wisconsin State Fair Park for nine years. At the State Fair she was in charge of concessions and grandstand operations as an employee of the State of Wisconsin. Prior to her present position with Milwaukee, Bea served as assistant ticket manager and assistant office manager.

Originally from West Allis, she and her husband, Don, a Milwaukee fireman are the parents of three sons; Jeff, 25; Steve, 23; and Rick, 21. The entire family enjoys participating in all the recreational activities that surround summer cottage life in Wisconsin.

Chuck Reupert
Controller

The bottom line is what most businessmen refer to when assessing a successful corporation. For the Milwaukee Bucks Chuck Reupert is the man who keeps tabs on what the bottom line is and where it's headed. As controller, Chuck handles the day-to-day financial affairs for the Bucks and is responsible for the many business details that enter into the operation of a pro sports franchise. Having joined the organization in February of 1971, Reupert is second in seniority among NBA controllers with ten years of pro basketball experience in the front office.

Reupert joined the club after serving as a plant accountant for a local manufacturing firm for ten years. A graduate of Boys Tech and the University of Wisconsin, he served as an infantry squad leader in Korea. An experienced sports car builder and driver, Chuck races under the Milwaukee Bucks banner in a car outfitted with the Bucks logo. He is the reigning class "D" racing champion in the Midwest area.

Chuck's twin sons, Mike and Mark, also have automotive interests. Mike serves as his father's race car crew chief while Mark owns and operates a semitrailer.

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J.
Chaplain

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J., is presently in his fifth season as the Milwaukee Bucks team chaplain. "It's primarily a consulting job more than anything," Father Gene explains. "It's one of those situations where a man who does a lot of counseling as I do, can be a lot of help to a young team like this. I just try to help the fellas keep their heads on straight. It's a job I appreciate," Father Gene continued. "I've dealt with a lot of athletes in my life and these men are outstanding."

Father Gene is perhaps best known for his television work. Fourteen years ago he started a program on WITI-TV called "For Better or Worse," which five years later was changed to "The Answer is Love." There have been nearly 700 programs, broadcast in six states. The program airs in Milwaukee at 10:30 a.m. Sunday and after the late, late news, about 1:45 a.m. Mondays. Topics are aimed to attract married persons, the elderly, singles, and teenagers.

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S. J. (Cont'd)

In addition to his lecturing, television work, counseling, and fund-raising, Jakubek also is a speaker on the international Sacred Heart radio program, conducts retreats about 10 weekends a year, has written nine books, several pamphlets, scores of magazine and newspaper articles, authored three records on life and love, leads two Bible classes and edits The Jesuit Blackrobe.

Father Gene has been the focus of features in the New York Times and People Magazine. His work has been honored often. The most recent, and possibly most prestigious award bestowed upon the father, came late last season when he was named the Outstanding Communicator of the Year by the Wisconsin Communication Association. Previous recipients of the award were Wisconsin Governor Dreyfus and Senator William Proxmire. Other honors Fr. Gene has received include the National Ten Commandments Award of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Man of the Year by the Polish National Alliance, and dozens of other awards from both civic and religious organizations.

Fr. Gene speaks enthusiastically about a program he started in 1968. HELP (Help for the elderly, lonely and poor), provides food, clothing, recreation, and visitations for shut-ins. The HELP center is at 5921 West North Avenue.

Jim Irwin
Voice of the Bucks

Jim Irwin is in his second season as the Voice of the Bucks on all 82 regular season home and away broadcasts and all playoff contests on WTMJ radio (620 am). The NBC radio affiliate feeds Irwin's courtside descriptions to a statewide network of over twenty stations throughout Wisconsin and upper Michigan. A three-time winner of the Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year Award, Irwin maintains a brisk pace with three play-by-play jobs; the Bucks, Green Bay Packers, and the University of Wisconsin football games.

"Travel in the NBA is always a problem," cites Irwin, "since there are 41 games on the road during the regular season and there are no consecutive games in any one city. But in truth I have traveled a lot during the past winters covering basketball in the Big 10, as well as selected Bucks games. It's a whole lot easier getting in and out of the large cities in bad weather than it is in the smaller towns in the Big 10. In addition, half the games are at the Arena here in Milwaukee. You don't get that luxury with the Packers and the Badgers."

Irwin is joined courtside behind the mike by former Bucks All-Star Jon McGlocklin at all home games. "Radio is a visual medium in that listeners see the game in their minds while the sportscaster is describing it," notes Irwin. "So I always gear my broadcasts toward that visual concept by trying to be clear and concise. Basketball has so much drama, tension, beauty, and grace to be communicated. Each broadcast is a combination of information and pure entertainment. I want all the listeners to feel they're right in the middle of the action," he concluded.

Jim has called Badger football for the past five seasons, covered the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tourney for 12 years, and has broadcast reports from the Indianapolis 500. In addition to his Bucks play-by-play responsibilities, Irwin will continue with his morning sports broadcast, "Viewpoint." Heard at 7:45 a.m. on WTMJ radio, it is a provocative commentary on assorted sports topics.

A graduate of the University of Missouri, Jim served with the Army in Korea. Jim married his childhood sweetheart, Gloria, who writes documentaries for Channel 10 in Milwaukee. The couple have two children; 16-year-old Anne, a junior at Whitefish Bay High School, and 13-year-old Jay, in the eighth grade at Henry Clay Elementary School.

Jon McGlocklin
Administrative Assistant

After pounding the hardwood for eleven seasons, the final eight years here in Milwaukee, Jon McGlocklin now can recall upon those experiences as a player. In his current role as color commentator on the Bucks home radio broadcasts on WTMJ radio and a statewide network, along with analysis of 18 televised road games on WVTV-Channel 18, his playing background serves him well.

The other facets of his current position as an administrative assistant with the Bucks include duties in the community relations area, promotions, and broadcasting.

McGlocklin is one of two players from the original Milwaukee Bucks team back in 1968 that is still connected with the organization. The other is Bucks Vice President Wayne Embry. Known on the court for his patented jumpshot, all-out hustle, and competitive spirit, McGlocklin is second to Bobby Dandridge for the club's career record for games played (595), was the first Buck ever to don an All-Star uniform (1969), and was a vital cog on the NBA championship squad of 1971.

Nowadays, Jon lends his expertise to the Bucks broadcasts, is a speaker much in demand at clinics, youth gatherings, church affairs, and father-son nights. His is president of the Midwest Athletes against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund while serving on the board of Athletes for Youth. McGlocklin also has been a color analyst for the CBS television network on their Game of the Week telecasts and is a regular on the USA network Thursday night game of the week telecasts.

Originally drafted in 1965 by Cincinnati after an outstanding collegiate career at Indiana, John spent two seasons with the Royals before a one year stint with the San Diego Rockets. The final eight years of his eleven year NBA career were here in Milwaukee with the Bucks.

Statistically, Jon carried an eight year scoring average of 12.5 points with the Bucks. His remarkable .505 field goal percentage still ranks among the top twenty all-time field goal shooters in NBA history.

Concerning his broadcasting career, McGlocklin credits Eddie Doucette, his long-time friend, for his success, "Eddie broke me in, he taught me everything. And he gave me a lot of room — he let me do halftime shows, post-game shows and so on."

A native of Franklin, Indiana, Jon and his wife Pam now make their home in suburban Greendale with their children; Shannon, 11, and Meghan, 5½. Jon owns and operates Jon McGlocklin's Carpet Court, a floor covering store located in Cudahy, and has joined Milwaukee Brewer Sal Bando in partnership in local business ventures including Ville du Parc Country Club.

Eddie Doucette
TV Announcer

Eddie Doucette continues to be a familiar face in the Bucks organization. Since the club's inception in 1968 until the start of the 1979 season, Doucette held the title as the "Voice of the Bucks." During the summer of 1979 Doucette left Milwaukee for the milder climate of San Diego. Still he continues to handle the play-by-play of eighteen televised road games on WVTV-Channel 18 with Jon McGlocklin providing the color analysis. The telecasts that originate through WVTV are also fed to cable stations covering the primary television markets in Wisconsin.

With his move westward, Fast Eddie acquired new duties with KFMB Radio in San Diego which require his presence in that area to do San Diego State football and basketball broadcasts along with Padres baseball on radio during televised games. The seasoned veteran can also be found calling the shots on Thursday night NBA cable games on the USA Network and cable games of Major League Baseball.

Doucette's Milwaukee Bucks road telecasts maintain a priority over all commitments in San Diego. He also handles any WVTV telecasts of playoff games.

A sports voice while attending Michigan State University, Doucette honed his skills on radio and television in Cincinnati, Toledo, Chicago, and Milwaukee before joining the club. Regarded by his peers as technically one of the best play-by-play men in the country. Fast Eddie coined such phrases as sky hook, yo-yo dribble, and rainbow jumper, to name just a few.

Eddie, his wife Karen, and their two sons; eight-year-old Brett, and five-year-old Cory reside in Poway, California.

'79-80 Regular Season: Finished with a strong shooting display from the field last season to help push the Bucks into the playoffs . . . offset a cold spell from the floor during most of the mid-season . . . 71-133 (.534%) from the field in the first 9 games of the year helped push the Bucks to an 8-1 record in those games — as the season went on Brian slumped as his FG% dropped to a season low mark of .436% after 45 games attributed mostly to the fact that he was forced out of position into the ball handling guard spot after Quinn Buckner's recurring hamstring injury . . . at the All-Star break Brian's FG% stood at .448% . . . in the 26 games after the break, Brian was the Bucks lifeblood as he pumped in 175-313 (.559%) of his field goal attempts and improved his season FG% to .479% — third best mark in his 6 year career as a Buck . . . playing in 80 games and starting in 77, Brian averaged 32.8 minutes per game and scored 16.2 ppg . . . Brian now has 7,380 points in his Milwaukee career for 4th place on the Bucks all-time leading scorers list behind Jon McGlocklin (7,505) and ahead of Junior Bridgeman (5,689) . . . led the Bucks in minutes played 24 times (2 ties) as the club worked to a 16-8 record in those contests . . . the last 12 times Brian led the club in minutes, the team posted a 9-3 mark . . . led the Bucks in scoring in 11 games (6-5) . . . season high 34 points vs. Los Angeles February 29 . . . also passed for a season high 14 assists vs. the Lakers October 31 . . . 1,841 assists in his career for the 4th position among Milwaukee's all-time leaders behind Jon McGlocklin (1,921) and ahead of Quinn Buckner (1,679) . . . shot .860% from the charity stripe in his best season mark for FT% of his career . . . career FT% stands at .845% . . . had 101 steals on the season for a 1.3 per game average — now has 503 steals as a Milwaukee Buck, second on the all-time pickpocket list behind Quinn Buckner (671) and ahead of Bob Dandridge (439) . . . led the Bucks in 3 point field goals last season hitting 38-102 (.373%) which put Brian in 6th place among the NBA's bombadiers — if there had been no 3 point shot available, Winters would have averaged 15.7 ppg instead of 16.2 on the basis of all goals being worth 2 points.

1980 Playoffs: Led the Bucks with 5.3 assists per game in the seven game series vs. Seattle . . . averaged 38.3 minutes per game in the series playing 45 minutes in Games 2 and 6 . . . finest all around performance came in the Bucks first playoff win in Game 2 as Brian hit 11-17 (.647%) from the field and 4-4 from the line . . . also passed for 5 assists and dodged for 4 steals . . . averaged 1.6 steals per game for the series . . . hit an excellent 10-10 from the charity stripe in post-season contests . . . leads the Bucks in playoff game appearances among the Bucks active players with 19 games to his credit . . . averages 5.8 assists per game and 19.9 ppg in playoff games . . . vs. Seattle Brian averaged 15.9 ppg and 3 rebounds.

High School: Prep All-American at Archbishop Molloy High School in Queens, New York . . . teamed with Indiana's Kevin Joyce to win the New York City title his junior year and runner-up his senior season.

College: At the University of South Carolina in Columbia, Brian was an All-American and captain his senior year for the Gamecocks . . . dropped in a jumpshot at the buzzer to beat Marquette 60-58 his senior year . . . was a history major.

Personal: Brian and his wife Julie were married last May . . . Brian also completed course requirements and was awarded his Master of Education at South Carolina during the off-season . . . has two brothers and two sisters — both his parents and sisters are educators in New York City — one brother is a geologist and the other a basketball coach . . . NBA All-Rookie team in 1975 . . . two time NBA All-Star . . . sports a full beard during the season.

BUCKS SET ATTENDANCE AND SELLOUT RECORDS

The Milwaukee Bucks completed the 1979-80 regular season with 38 consecutive sellouts and eclipsed their all-time attendance records set during the 1978-79 season. Only 1,486 seats went unsold the entire regular season, and those seats were at two games early in the season, one of which was the same night as the seventh game of the World Series. Indeed, crowds of better than 15,000 could have been drawn for at least a dozen games had more seats been available.

Through the end of the regular season, Milwaukee drew an average of 10,902 fans for a total of 446,972 or 99.7% capacity including 39 total sellouts. Those figures eclipse the all-time records set during the previous season of 1978-79 of 32 sellouts, 443,926 total regular season attendance for an average of 10,827 fans. The 1978-79 mark bettered the previous all-time record set in 1976-77.

Through the first 12 years of the franchise, the Bucks have drawn a regular season total of 4,622,560 over 463 games for an average of 9,983 or better than 91% capacity.

Coupled with the Bucks record setting pace is a League wide trend in the same direction. The NBA established a record regular season attendance of close to 10 million fans for the 1979-80 regular season.

Last season's figure of 9,937,575 surpasses the previous mark of 9,898,521 set in 1976-77 and is 176,198 ahead of the 1978-79 attendance mark.

BIG O — FIRST BUCK INDUCTED INTO HALL OF FAME

The game of basketball is perhaps the most beautiful of American games, almost poetic in its presentation and infinite in its excitement. Its performers, too, are something to behold. They are to many the world's finest athletes because they are the most graceful, the most talented . . . and most could have gone into any sport outside of basketball and succeeded. The game itself is relatively simple, though on certain levels, such as in the NBA, the mind must function as well as the body does.

NBA basketball especially is a game that matches the very best basketball players in the world against each other. These are men who run the fastest, are the best ballhandlers, can pass with accuracy, play superb defense and provide deadly scoring from almost any spot on the basketball court.

As with anything in life, there will always be those who rise above the "normal" level of talent; those who, because of their brilliance, become legends in the professions they have chosen. In basketball, such a legend is the man they call the "Big O" — OSCAR PALMER ROBERTSON. It defies logic to believe that there will again be one like him, that some kid now toiling on the playground somewhere in America will be able to put it all together and handle every phase of basketball as exceptionally as Robertson has. That just does not seem possible.

Acknowledged by his peers as one of the finest all-around players in basketball history, Robertson became the first Milwaukee Buck to be inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts on April 28, 1980.

An 11-time NBA All-Star, Oscar was named the League's Most Valuable Player three times.

"Big O" was a three time All-American at Cincinnati University. Although the 6'5" picture of grace never was on a national championship team, his Cincinnati Bearcats had successive seasons of 25-3, 26-4 and 28-2 records.

Starting his glorious pro career in the 1960-61 season with the Cincinnati Royals, Robertson went on to become the game's most admired performer. "He was the only player who gave a clinic every time he stepped onto the floor," said a veteran NBA observer.

"Oscar will go down in history as one of the true great guards that ever played the game," said Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach. After a long career with Cincinnati, Robertson was traded to the Milwaukee Bucks where in 1971 he helped the team to the NBA World Championship.

Big O scored his 25,000th career point while playing for the Bucks in a game against the New York Knicks December 1, 1972 in Milwaukee. In 14 pro seasons he scored 26,710 points and established the all-time record for assists in the NBA (9,887) and for Milwaukeee (2,156). On page 125 is the biography on Oscar which is included on his "window" in the Honors court of the Basketball Hall of Fame.

OSCAR P. ROBERTSON
ELECTED 1979 — PLAYER

Born in Charlotte, TN; graduated Crispus Attucks H.S. (Indianapolis, IN) 1956; University of Cincinnati, 1960. All-time All-State in Indiana; Indiana Player-of-Year 1956, as team won two State Titles. During historic college career at U-C, was All-American three years; Player of the Year two years; major college scoring leader three years; established 14 NCAA records. Oscar was on Pan American Champion Team 1959 and Co-Captain of Olympic Champions 1960 in Rome. In 14 years in NBA, helped lead Cincinnati and Milwaukee to nine Play-offs and one NBA Title; was Rookie of the Year, 1961; League MVP, 1964; All-Star MVP, 1961, 1964, 1969; scored 26,710 points, 25.7 average in 1,035 games with record 9,887 assists and 7,694 free throws. Scored record 246 points in 12 All-Star Games. Selected All-NBA 11 years, during which "Big O" was widely recognized as one of the greatest all-around players in history of basketball.

Western Conference teams in the playoffs . . . Milwaukee finished with a team free throw percentage of .764% for the 13th spot in the League . . . opponents vs. the Bucks shot .753% from the line — 3rd worst in the League . . . during the Bucks 10 game win streak the club averaged 26.3 free throws per game . . . in the hot streak after the All-Star break the club averaged 29.5 per game . . . in all other games the club averaged 19.1 free throws per game . . . Milwaukee subs averaged 9.57 minutes per game and scored 40.5 of the Bucks total points — that works out to the reserve strength playing 40% of the game and scoring 37% of the team total points . . . about 16 minutes and 6.7 ppg for each reserve . . . the Bucks held all opponents to under 20 points in 38 quarters out of the total 328 in the season . . . the Bucks were held to under 20 points in 19 quarters by the opposition — that works out to the Bucks holding an opponent to under 20 points in one quarter roughly every two games — the Bucks are held to sub-20 point quarters once every 5 games . . . Bucks tight defense held the Kings to an NBA season low of 72 points on Feb. 24 also setting a franchise low for the Kings . . . the Bucks also are co-holders of the low quarter in the NBA last season holding the Golden State Warriors to 10 points in the third quarter March 8.

Playoffs: Game #1 Seattle took the first game 114-113 on Dennis Johnson's desperation 3-point shot with one second remaining in overtime. A lob to Marques Johnson was nearly converted but spun out with no time left. Leading scorers were Gus Williams (30) and Dennis Johnson (24) for Seattle and Bob Lanier (27) and Dave Meyers (20) for Milwaukee. In the rebounding department it was Jack Sikma (11) and John Johnson (10) leading Seattle while Lanier (10) and Sidney Moncrief (9) led the Bucks. Seattle outrebounded Milwaukee 50-46 and outshot them from the field .461% to .445%.

Game #2 on Wednesday, April 9 saw the Bucks eke out a 114-112 win in overtime. That was the second overtime game in two nights and the third in four playoff games for Seattle. Leading scorers: Brian Winters (29) and Junior Bridgeman (19) for the Bucks and Lonnie Shelton (25) and Jack Sikma (19) for Seattle. The Bucks outshot Seattle in this one .466% to .452% but were outrebounded 42-39.

Game #3 saw Milwaukee take a 95-91 decision riding on the heels of a 14 point third quarter lead. Leading scorers: For Milwaukee; Bob Lanier (24) and Marques Johnson (16). For Seattle; Jack Sikma (20) and Dennis Johnson (15). Leading rebounders: Bucks; Marques Johnson (10) and Bob Lanier (7). Sonics; Jack Sikma (13) and Lonnie Shelton (7). Milwaukee won the rebounding battle for the first game in the series in this game 41-36 and also outshot Seattle for the second consecutive game .506% to .464%.

Game #4, the second game in Milwaukee, saw the Sonics even up the series at 2-2 with a convincing 112-107 win. The final margin was not indicative of the game as Seattle jumped out to a 10-0 lead and was never headed. Milwaukee was down by as much as 18 points late in the third quarter before making their most serious run of the game with :37 seconds left in the fourth when they closed the gap to four, 108-104, on a baseline jumper by Marques Johnson after which Seattle scored the final four points of the game. Marques Johnson (31) had his best scoring game of the playoffs while five other Bucks scored 10 or more points. For Seattle, Gus Williams (32) and Lonnie Shelton (22) led the scoring parade. In the rebounding department Dave Meyers and Bob Lanier each grabbed 9 for the Bucks while Lonnie Shelton (15) and John Johnson (10) pushed Seattle to a 45-42 rebounding edge. Teamwise the Sonics also outshot Milwaukee .531% to .446%.

Game #5 played in front of 40,172 in Seattle's Kingdome was the largest crowd ever to view an NBA game. They saw Milwaukee take the lead in the series 3 games to 2 behind a strong bench performance, particularly on the part of Richard Washington (21 points on 10 of 14 floor shooting), Sidney Moncrief (14 points), and Pat Cummings (8 points, 6 rebounds in 19 minutes). Both clubs started the game without the services of their backup centers. Milwaukee's Harvey Catchings did not dress due to an ongoing condition of a bone spur in the left achilles and Seattle's Tom LaGarde sat out due to knee problems. Milwaukee's plight was further complicated when Dave Meyers (knee injury) and Junior Bridgeman (severe lower back bruises) were not able to finish the game. That left Milwaukee with just 7 regulars to finish the game since Lloyd Walton has yet to see action in the series. Milwaukee lost the rebounding battle (52-43) but won the shooting war (.500% to .404%) in Game #5. Leading scorers: For Milwaukee; Bob Lanier (22) and Richard Washington a career high with Milwaukee (21). For Seattle; Gus Williams (22) followed by four other Sonics in double digits.

Game #6 proved fatal for the Bucks as they had the opportunity to advance to the Western Conference finals by defeating Seattle in Milwaukee. Alas, the Bucks scored just 35 points in the first half to set an all-time low. Seattle's 48 points wasn't an outstanding performance either but supplied the impetus for the second half where they managed to hold on to the lead and eventually win by 1 point to send the game back to Seattle for the deciding seventh game. For Milwaukee Marques Johnson (22) and Bob Lanier (19) led four players in double figures. The Bucks held Seattle to a measley 38% shooting performance from the floor but managed eight less rebounds than Seattle and thus were unable to capitalize on the opportunities. For Seattle five players scored in double figures led by Dennis Johnson with 18.

Game #7 was the final and deciding game of the series which later was to be recognized as the best series of the 1980 playoffs. Milwaukee dropped a 98-94 decision to the Sonics with the game being decided in the final fast and furious minutes. Once again Gus Williams broke free consistently for 33 points backed up by three other double figure scorers. Milwaukee's Marques Johnson led his club with 22 points with Lanier and Winters each supplying 19. Again the Bucks were outrebounded (48-41) and outshot (.449% to .404%) by Seattle. They also knew going into the game that it would be extremely difficult to defeat the defending champion on their home court. Seattle went on to play Los Angeles for the Western Conference Championship and lost to the eventual title winner.
